

PARTNER FINDER

I've installed a version of Toast Forums that seems to work. It has a few problems we're trying to overcome. I've named the page (forum) 'Partner Finder', with a link on the left navigation table. I didn't want your personal information (email, full names or telephone numbers) posted on the board, and this board seems to keep that private.

A brief description of the process

- log into the board
 - first time users will need to set up an ID, please include your email address, so any replies can be forwarded to your email address
 - log in with your previous ID
- first time users please read the 'Welcome to Partner Finder - Please Read This First' forum
- then enter the 'Partner Finder' forum
- Looking for a Partner?
- Scan messages
 - reply to the messages you want
 - your message will be emailed to them
 - they can't reply to that email, they will have to respond to the response from inside the forum with their contact information
 - Please try to conceal your email
 - i.e. frank@hvvolleyball.com (frank-at-hvvolleyball-dot-com) or something similar
- Post message
 - Click on New Topic
 - In the Subject box place a brief description
 - i.e. 6/10 CDGD co-ed A female partner wanted
 - Give a more detailed description in the Message box
 - i.e. I play beach co-ed A, I'm looking for someone for Sunday 6/10 at CDGD
 - when someone replies, you should get an email
 - you can't reply to that email, you will have to respond to the response inside the forum with your contact information
 - Please try to conceal your email
 - i.e. frank@hvvolleyball.com (frank-at-hvvolleyball-dot-com) or something similar
- you should add forums@hvvolleyball.com to your address book, allowing any replies past your spam filters

Please let me know of any problems and feel free to post test messages.

Thanks

Frank